ISEC FIRST FUND

Report of the Investment Manager

Investment Manager's Report until December 31, 2023

2023 was yet another challenging year for investors. To some extent, the past year began with optimism, especially as the global pandemic faded and life largely returned to its natural rhythms. Supply chains had been reestablished, travel and tourism had a boost, restaurants and concert halls resumed operations, and socializing with friends and family flourished. On the other hand, at the beginning of the year, there was a widespread perception that the situation on most economic fronts would get significantly worse before it got better, largely as a result of rampant inflation.

During the first quarter of the year, the markets were mainly characterized by concerns over the economic implications of increasing inflation. The increasingly rapid rise in long-term interest rates created an unsustainable situation for several niche banks that, by all accounts, did not seem to have managed their risks. The aforementioned niche banks' business turned out to be based, perhaps to a slightly too large extent, on lending to non-profitable younger technology companies. A classic so-called "bank run" (which means that most of a bank's customers attempt to withdraw their savings at the same time) became the final nail in the coffin for the niche banks and became their downfall.

What will be memorable from the quarter was how quickly conditions turned. On March 6, Silicon Valley Bank was named one of America's best banks by the prestigious magazine Forbes. Only a little over a month later, on the tenth of March, the bank collapsed as a result of a "bank run", which was the starting point for a wider problem. Wise from lessons learned from the Lehman crash, central banks around the world acted in a coordinated and prompt manner by ensuring liquidity and also forcing changes in ownerships. It seems that negative spillover effects from the banking crisis were completely avoided thanks to prudent intervention.

During the second quarter of the year, the markets were characterized by interest rate increases, inflation and continued strength in the stock markets. The earnings reports, in general, were surprisingly positive. In particular from companies with strong brands that, through their outstanding price leadership, were able to successfully implement price increases to their customers. Another strong driving force behind the rise in the world index was dampened inflation anxiety, which to a large extent took its origin in the slightly questionable economic signals that were visible. During the end of the quarter, a kind of hype arose within companies with connections to Artificial Intelligence. Investors scrambled to be first, which led to considerable price increases in companies operating in the area. Most central banks raised their key interest rates several times during the quarter. In addition, representatives of several central banks warned that future increases would also occur, which caused long-term interest rates to rise further. This despite the fact that many signals began to point to falling inflation expectations.

After the year's exceptionally strong first six months, many probably experienced a bit of an awakening in connection with sharply rising market interest rates and weak stock market development. During the third quarter of the year, the markets were characterized by strong turbulence, which was probably mainly driven by rising inflation rates and a concern about a general economic downturn as a result of the central banks' interest rate increases. A strong contributing factor to the upward inflationary pressure was rising energy prices. Market interest rates also continued to rise and we need to go back to the time when the Lehman crash occurred in 2007 to find the latest time when such interest levels last occurred.

The last quarter of the year began weakly as a result of leading economic indicators continuing to point to a weakened growth rate. Inflation appeared to have moderated momentarily and most analysts seemed to believe that the cause was the weaker economic signals at hand. An escalated conflict between Israel and Hamas created increased geopolitical uncertainty and the ten-year yield in the US exceeded 5 percent for the first time since 2007. Then everything suddenly turned around. In an "almost-everything-goes-up-rally", the global markets rose sharply. The main driving force behind the rise was falling interest rates, for example the American ten-year yield fell by over one and a quarter percentage points. European interest rates also fell. There was also a widespread perception that the policy rate hikes in 2023 had an adequate tightening effect. Most perceived that we will experience substantial reductions in interest rates, from the central banks, in 2024. All relevant central banks left their policy rates unchanged at the end of the year.

A strong stock market year is behind us, colored by the boom in AI, high inflation, a temporary banking crisis and the horrific situations in Israel and Ukraine.

With great probability, we will in the coming year experience continued geopolitical tension and high inflation. The year 2024 is designated as a "super election year" where 76 countries have elections scheduled. I have great confidence that the underlying funds in the portfolio will perform in an absolutely excellent manner and I am convinced that 2024 will be another successful year for the fund.

Report of the "réviseur d'entreprises agréé"

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of ISEC First Fund (the "Fund") and of each of its sub-funds, which comprise the statement of net assets and the statement of investments and other net assets as at December 31, 2023 and the statement of operations and changes in net assets for the year then ended, and notes to the financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements give a true and fair view of the financial position of the Fund and of each of its sub-funds as at December 31, 2023, and of the results of its operations and changes in its net assets for the year then ended in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation and presentation of the financial statements.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with the Law of 23 July 2016 on the audit profession (Law of 23 July 2016) and with International Standards on Auditing (ISAs) as adopted for Luxembourg by the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier (CSSF). Our responsibilities under the Law of 23 July 2016 and ISAs as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF are further described in the "Responsibilities of the réviseur d'entreprises agréé for the Audit of the Financial Statements" section of our report. We are also independent of the Fund in accordance with the International Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants, including International Independence Standards, issued by the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA Code) as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF together with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the financial statements, and have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities under those ethical requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Other information

The Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company is responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information stated in the annual report but does not include the financial statements and our report of the réviseur d'entreprises agréé thereon.

Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information and we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report this fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

Responsibilities of the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company for the Financial Statements

The Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation and presentation of the financial statements, and for such internal control as the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company is responsible for assessing the Fund's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company either intends to liquidate the Fund or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Responsibilities of the "réviseur d'entreprises agréé" for the Audit of the Financial Statements

The objectives of our audit are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue a report of the réviseur d'entreprises agréé that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Law dated 23 July 2016 and with ISAs as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Law dated 23 July 2016 and with ISAs as adopted for Luxembourg by the CSSF, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Fund's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of the Board of Directors of the Fund's Management Company use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Fund's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our report of the réviseur d'entreprises agréé to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our report of the réviseur d'entreprises agréé.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.
